ABOUT THE DOMAINE

La Gabare is one of the last independent cognac houses. It was founded in 1992 by Jean Groperrin, a cognac broker and merchant, who was able to capitalise on the close relationships he has with his clients, resulting in them allowing him to buy precious private stocks. Today, the family-owned company remains dedicated to the selection, ageing and sale of rare, old cognacs under the brand names "Cognac de Collection Jean Groperrin" and "Cognac Le Roch." All of their products are verified and certified by the French National Scientific Research Institute guaranteeing their impeccable provenance and quality.

DISTILLATION

Completely natural without additives (which includes wood extract flavouring, sugar, caramel or artificial colouring/flavouring).

TASTING NOTES

Blend of 3 Petite Champagne Cognacs. The sugar naturally contained in the vanillin in the wooden casks is very present, giving plenty of roundness to this cognac. Its lightness and delicacy comes from the limestone subsoil of Archaic, whilst the fruity notes come from the somewhat heavier soils of the north of the area.
